

A walk for winter

There's nowhere better for a winter weekend than Corrou Station in Scotland's West Highlands. Two Youth Hostels, spectacular scenery and wildlife, and great walks in all directions, including this route to Rannoch: www.carfreewalks.org/walks/324/corrou\_to\_rannoch\_-\_a\_remote\_walk\_in\_scotland

Winter in the Scottish Highlands

Been on a great winter walk? Submit it at: www.carfreewalks.org

What's on the blog?

Gary Shipp recounts a bothy weekend near Achnashellach in Glen Carron, and Penny Woods takes a walk in the woods of north London. <http://carfreewalks.blogspot.com>

Toadstools in Trent Country Park, London

Want to blog for us? Drop us a line: info@carfreewalks.org

Member benefits

And log in and scroll down in the 'Your walks and more' tab for member's offers – including 10% discounts with Aqua 3 maps and Green Books.

New design...

We will be launching a new, more user-friendly design in the spring. New features will include OS maps for routes, elevation profiles for each route, an easy walk-submittal form and quarterly prize draw for submitting routes.

If you would like to help test the new site (there will be a prize draw for testers!), please get in touch – testing will start in January 2011.

The car-free photo gallery

Walks in Wales dominate the gallery – from Snowdonia down to Cardiff. Many thanks to Peter Roberts for all his photos! www.visitorreview.com/carfreewalks

Boot prints in Snowdonia

Next newsletter

Our spring newsletter will be in out March. Please send us any news and meanwhile, enjoy the website!

